Setting The Course

Hendersonville, the City of Four Seasons, is nestled in the Blue Ridge Mountains. Its beauty, touch of class and its pride have made it an outstanding place to visit, to live and to grow. As Hendersonville changes from a small community to a metropolitan area, it is striving to maintain its qualities of excellence.

The students of Hendersonville High School reflect this attitude of excellence. The city definitely influences this school. It establishes a course for excellence as it leads us. We feel the financial backing of our adult citizens. We witness the attendance of the townspeople at our sports events and other extra-curricular activities. We learn from the volunteers who aid in our classrooms. We, the students, carry these influences into our daily lives.

For Excellence

Outside of the school, the students from HHS set the course for excellence. Many students keep jobs up as well as their school work. Many also participate in some of the community, church, and/or other related organizations in Hendersonville. The mighty Bearcats hold a very respected place in the community.

The building itself stands in pride with the inscription: "Dedicated to the Sanctity of Child Personality — Art, Science, Letters, Music, History."

We sing our Alma Mater with pride. We stand tall in our red and white. We, the Bearcats, hold the essence of excellence.

Excellence

The activities on and off the campus of Hendersonville High School show that our standard is excellence. We take pride in academics, the arts, clubs, organizations, and the teams, as well as the individuals which make up the student body.

The spirit is shown in many ways here at HHS. In the fall everyone attends the first pep rally, cheering for his team, his class, and the Bearcats. Every Friday the halls are decorated with posters for the games, Pep rallies are held after school and the spirit stick is awarded to the class who shows the most spirit during the week.

Choose well; your choice is brief, but endless. Christie Thomas, Boyd Safrit, and Laurie Jankowski choose look-alike shirts for Red & White Day.

"Make the most of yourself, for that is all there is of you." Don, Chris, Jeff, and Tony have a "tough" friendship.

Excellent Friends

"I love you not only for what you are, but for what I am when I am with you.

I love you not only for what you are making of yourself, but for what you are making of me.

I love you for that part of me that you bring out.

I love you for putting your hand into my heaped-up heart and passing over all the foolish, and frivolous, and weak things that you cannot help dimly seeing there, for drawing out into the light all of the beautiful and radiant qualities that no one else has looked quite deep enough to find.

I love you for ignoring the possibility of the fool in me, and laying hold of the possibility of good.

I love you for closing your ears to the discords in me, and for adding to the harmony in me by reverent listening.

I love you because you are helping me to make the structure of my life not a tavern, but a temple; and the words of my every day not a reproach but a song.

You have done it just by being yourself. Perhaps this is what being a friend means after all."

The flag corps helps one another as they get ready to march in the King Apple Parade.

Always remember that being short or tall doesn't determine your size at all. You are measured by the width of your grin and the depth and breadth of what is within. Sheila Jernigan and Darnel Waters share a grin.

"The happiest moments of my life have been in the flow of affection among my friends."

Audria and Darren set the "Pace" for a good friendship.

The class of '85 supports the Bearcats.

"A friend is a present you give to yourself." Kathy Fredericks grins as she hugs her friends, Ashley Edwards and Shelley Smith, at a Friday night football game.

On The Job

Many students, when not at HHS, spend time at jobs after school and on weekends. Although it does call a student away from the school and some of its activities, a job can be a very rewarding experience in a student's life.

From local restaurants and stores to volunteer organizations, there seem to be Bearcats working in every corner of Henderson county. The students from Hendersonville High School hold a very well respected name in the working community.

"McDonald's is our kind of place."

Lisa, Debra and Courtenay are "super scoopers" at Piggy's Ice Cream.

Russ Stokes is only one of the many students from H.H.S. that has a job at the new Blue Ridge Mall.

Kelly Heery prepares the new Rose's store for the grand-opening.

Sherrill Oates serves up the jelly beans from the Peanut Shack.

Summer Of '83

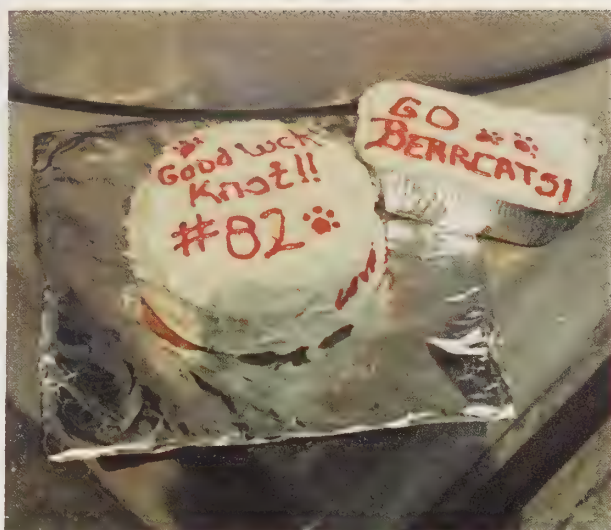

The summer of '83, the year of hot days and warm nights, was thrilling, exciting, and fascinating. It was, for many, the last summer of total freedom, the last vacation before adulthood and all its responsibilities. Some of the upperclassmen reached the age of legality, only to see it taken from them on October 1.

Summer was not only an escape from school but also an escape from normal life. As we screamed from the hallowed halls of HHS on June 3, we went in many different directions. North, south, east, and west routes inside the U.S.A. were taken by most, while some students toured Europe. Others found the beach offered sun and fun that seemed worlds away from Hooterville. Of course, others stayed home to work, play, swim, party, check Main, and meet at Pizza Hut and McDonald's.

The fun days faded into August, and the summer of '83 became the summer past. Now we reflect on the fond memories, and we smile.

Excellent Times

Time marches on. We moved from the toddler stage into Bruce Drysdale, through Middle Grade and H.J.H.S. to the final walk, H.H.S. We had waited for the legal age to drive, to vote, to register, and to consume. We learned to drive; we voted, and we registered. The North Carolina State Legislature said, "You will not consume."

We moved from manually operated cars to computer programmed cars that talked to us.

Seniors were concerned when they registered. The United States Marines were in Lebanon on a "peace keeping" mission. President Reagan, in an unprecedented move, sent American troops into Grenada. We watched Europeans demonstrate against nuclear weapons being placed in their countries by the U.S.A.

Through it all, we tried to maintain a positive attitude, and we reached for excellence.

Friends of Mercedes Wells helped her celebrate her eighteenth birthday by decorating her 280-ZX.

David Gann and Mr. Gunning discuss fine points of printing in the Graphics Department.

Lula Lynch wonders what Janet Brown and Cynthia Black find amusing about volleyball practice.

A sophomore participates in Jersey and Bandana Day.

Tony Templeton and a friend enjoy a football game.

Mr. Franklin's students observed the first annual "pick on me day".

Students take time to have fun in their academic classes.

FEATURES

After a week of difficult practices in the cold weather, the Freshman-Junior and Senior-Sophomore Powder-puff teams, prepared for battle, met on Dietz Field. Both teams, anxious to play, were set on winning. The Freshmen-Juniors took an early lead and held it throughout the game. The Senior-Sophomores managed to score, but they were unable to hold off the powerful Freshmen-Juniors.

The halftime entertainment was provided by the HHS powderpuff band and the presentation of sixteen beauties. The evening, obviously enjoyed by everyone, was exciting.

Aren't our cheerleaders beautiful?

Homecoming week 1983 proved to be full of excitement and spirit. Nearly everyone was involved throughout the week, either by participating in the powderpuff festivities or wearing cat paws, jerseys, shades and bandanas, or red and white. The nominees for homecoming queen and court representatives, along with the Cat Family, were announced at a student-body assembly. Saturday night was the finale of the homecoming activities — the homecoming dance. The theme this year was “1999,” and everyone partied like it was “1999.”

out what a special group of people we really are.

The senior class led the enthusiasm by winning bandanna day, the spirit stick and the highest percentage for the over-all week, 73.26%. The class of '87 put up a tremendous fight to come in second with 72.95%. The junior class winning Red and White day came in third with 69.5%, and sophomores placed fourth with 54.9%. These final percentages were used to give major points for the Croft cup.

The week began with a homeroom pep rally. The cheerleaders told us of the week's following events and started the spirit with some cheers. Tuesday was jersey and bandanna day, Wednesday was formal dress-up day; Friday was Red and White day. The cheerleaders sponsored a pep rally during break and after school. Mrs. Norman, who was named "Bearcat of the Week", handed out shakers to the students at the game.

Even though the weather was wet, the stands were crowded, and the tension was high. The 'Cats came out ready to play ball!

Miss Laureate embodies the best in all of us as high school students. She is selected on the basis of her achievements, character, and service to H. H. S. This year's Miss Laureate is an outstanding person who has steadily strived to attain excellence in all areas of her school life.

With great respect and admiration, we proudly present the 1984 Miss Laureate, Nancy Linder.

Nancy seems quite at home sitting at a desk, in a classroom at HHS!

DEDICATION

Smilingly she says, "We can take care of that." No problem is too big or too small to be handled. Her efficiency is unparalleled; her patience and calmness are magnificent traits; she is gracious to all with whom she comes in contact. She is the essence of excellence.

With great pride and respect, the staff dedicates the 1984 LAUREATE to a very special person, Mrs. Gail Johnson.

The Class of Nineteen Hundred and Eighty Four — the Senior Class — after three long, hard years, it sounds good to hear our class referred to as the Senior Class.

Our years together at HHS have been good years. Looking back, we are reminded of all the fun we had on our way to becoming seniors.

Do you remember when we were freshmen? It seems so long ago. There was a time, however, when we wandered the halls of HHS in awe, curiosity, and excitement. Upon our arrival, we were tormented with golf balls and tricycles. We soon learned that initiation was not worth all the worry we had given it, and it felt good to become full-fledged Bearcats. Freshman year was full of new experiences and learning. We spent Friday nights at the Pizza Hut and Wednesdays at the library. We struggled to find our place as we spent the year making new friends and learning about ourselves.

Before we knew it, we were sophomores. The new juniors and seniors no longer seemed so almighty, and we felt at home in the halls of HHS. During our sophomore year we gained our pass to freedom — the driver's license. This year some of us decided it was time to start working; others made a commitment to crack-the-books, but most of us just did our best to have fun. Sophomore year was a special time when we were old enough to feel important but young enough to feel carefree.

Could Brian Finny's popularity have something to do with his paycheck?

Junior year came crashing upon us with a taste of the real world. Research papers were the big talk, and they were just what we had thought they would be — HARD. Thoughts of class rings and basketball games kept us going through the year, and the big challenge was Junior-Senior. "A Night on Broadway" was our theme, and we spent long days and nights planning and decorating. It was not easy; but, after some hard work, we not only put on a great prom, we also learned something. We learned how to work together; we learned what great things we could accomplish, and we learned just how special our class really is.

Now! Finally, we are SENIORS. It is still hard to believe at times. After having struggled for so long, it is our year to march in; it is our year to claim the Senior Steps, and it is our year to go off campus for lunch. We still have a few challenges to overcome. Senior English class and Calculus are famous for keeping seniors busy; and, of course, thoughts of our senior play and the beach always seem to wander into our minds.

The fact that graduation is fast approaching is also foremost in our thoughts. Soon it will be time to bid farewell to HHS. We will be faced with new challenges and new dreams; some of us will be faced with a whole new world. Our high school days will soon be only memories. We will remember good times, old friends, teachers, classes, and special events.

Some things may slip our minds; some memories may fade away, but one thing will always hold true: We will always be the class of Nineteen Hundred and Eighty Four.

The junior class was, as usual, a force with which to be reckoned. They had numerous projects to organize and participate in successfully. The typical junior activities were the most fun — ordering rings, comparing them once they arrived, and planning the Junior-Senior Prom. Where would it be held? Which band can the class afford? What kind of food will be good? Should we decorate? Will we ever come up with an interesting theme? All these questions had to be answered before any action could occur. Of course, there was the spirited race for the Croft Cup. Service projects had to be done, and participation in school activities, such as the magazine sale and can drive, had to be effective. The juniors stuck together, though, and displayed that they are an active part of Hendersonville High School.

After the bell rang at 3:00, students rushed off to various places. Some headed for after-school jobs, while others rushed home to follow the "General Hospital" saga. Many students headed toward practices. During the first few months of school, the band instruments were pulled out of cases, and the sound of cleats pounded as the football team walked to its field. The cross-country runners prepared for their long distance trek, as the volleyball team worked on set-ups and spikes. With the changing of the leaves, the practices also changed. The cheerleaders still worked on chants after-school, but the basketball teams ran lay-up after lay-up, and the wrestlers perfected their moves. Once again, the weather and practices changed. The tennis team worked on forehands, backhands, lobs, and everything else even remotely connected with the sport. The golfers always seemed to be leaving school early to venture to Cherokee or some other faraway place. The baseball and softball teams worked hard. The balls, bats, and mitts were used for strenuous practices. The track teams gave the track a grueling pounding, whether it be a record-setting dash or an evenly-paced mile. Most students at Hendersonville were involved in an after-school activity; school wasn't just books after all.

All that practice has paid off for Haley Haynes and her horn.

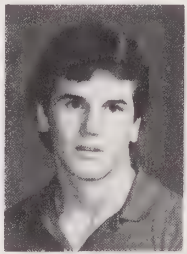

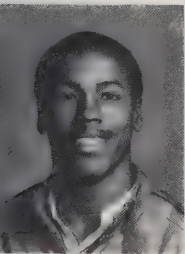

Lisa O'Grady and the volleyball team contributed to the standard of excellence of HHS.

With research papers to write and Scholastic Aptitude Tests to prepare for, juniors were busy. The tremendous task of choosing a reasonable paper topic, and sticking to it, was the first step. Cries of "I'll never find enough information!" to "I don't know where to start!" were common. The studious juniors persevered, however. Topics such as John Kennedy, cocaine, the media, alcoholism, and Ancient Greece were among the final topic choices. The transferring of notes from sources to index cards was the easiest part of the paper process. Writing the rough draft was difficult and time-consuming. To actually use those notecards seemed like a strange task. But the paper was written, changed, rewritten, revised again, and finally typed. Sighs of relief were numerous as that last page was pulled out of the trusty typewriter. The inevitable day arrived and clear folder after folder, summing up hours and hours of hard work, was stacked on the English teacher's desk, to await their all important grade.

The sophomore class was an active class this year; the second floor was decorated for almost every football game, and the class was cheering at pep rallies. The class was involved in Hendersonville High School by joining clubs, playing on a team, or just being a loyal Bearcat.

The one event most memorable about the sophomore year is the driver's license. After all those hours of classwork and "behind-the-wheel" experience, most sophomores could finally drive on their own. As students spread the word that they were going to get their licenses, other students advised them on which car to drive, which patrolman to get, and what time of the day to make the fateful journey to the Highway Patrol Office. The next day the brand new license was passed around English, as everyone stretched for a glimpse of the plastic card.

The sophomore year is a middle time — not a freshman, but not yet a junior. The sophomores adjusted well, but they looked forward to becoming upperclassmen.

A student's locker was a reflection of the times. During the start of the school year, the textbooks and notebooks stacked up very neatly, but as the year progressed, the condition of the bright red lockers worsened. Loose papers, smelly gym clothing, broken pencils, old lunches, and trash abounded. Many a student could be observed slamming a locker door quickly, all the while hoping that nothing of any value would escape before the door closed. The morning before a long vacation, teachers' trash cans were dragged into the hallways, as some students made a noble attempt to make order out of the mess. Some students used their lockers for inspiration. Pictures of models from Gentlemen's Quarterly decorated the door, or an advertisement for Sylvester Stallone's latest movie filled the void. Other students taped religious passages to the locker walls, while still others had a favorite cartoon to glance at while the locker was open. The time spent at a student's locker, however, was an important part of the school day. The five minutes here and there was time enough to catch up on an assignment, talk to friends, or hear earth-shattering gossip.

After the 3:00 bell, a student would shuffle to his locker, exchange his books, slam the door, and head away from the academic aspect of high school life, and inevitably think, "Another one down."

The telephone located in the middle of the first floor was always in use; before school juniors called parents with pleas to bring in the next thirty-three note cards. During the ten-minute break, many a hungry student, begging for the lunch he had left sitting on the kitchen counter, called Mom. Students used the phone during lunch for more leisurely activities — calling an out-of-school beau or catching a sick friend up on the latest gossip. After school the phone had yet another purpose. All of us knew what it felt like to be “left” by a friend or neighbor. Even later in the day, the freshmen and anyone else without a driver’s license and car called home to inform rides that practice was over. The phone was seemingly in constant use. Students always needed to talk to someone, and very often, the few minutes on the phone between classes were never enough.

Freshman PE is one of the many institutions of Hendersonville High School. During the first month of school, dripping, soggy hair and wet, sullen faces were a common sight. Damp swimming suits lay molding in the bottom of lockers, and Patton Pool would never be the same. Time moved on, and athletes ran the block day after day, constantly improving their scores or their methods of cutting corners. Eventually, the classes went inside to the endless scooter races. They also participated in fast-paced volleyball and basketball games during their year-long athletic stint at HHS. For one quarter the gym suits and grooming aids were left at home as the students studied health. For the girls, health provided the chance to wear a dress and not have to worry about changing. In the spring the classes went back outside for invigorating softball games or unique track and field experiences. Every one of us has fulfilled his Physical Education requirement, and the freshman class is no exception.

August 22, 1983, signified different things to many different people. To seniors it meant the beginning of the end at Hendersonville High School. To juniors the day meant "only one more year"; sophomores were glad they were no longer freshmen, and the youngest class had been dreading the day for weeks. Just the "Class of '84 Welcomes You" looming overhead was ominous to the "new" students. As old friends caught each other up on the summer's adventures and romances, many freshmen rolled golf balls in competitive races or danced on the sundial. A few wore McDonald's bibs, and a few more tried to hide, usually unsuccessfully, in groups of non-freshmen. Then the 8:15 bell rang, and the students poured into the auditorium.

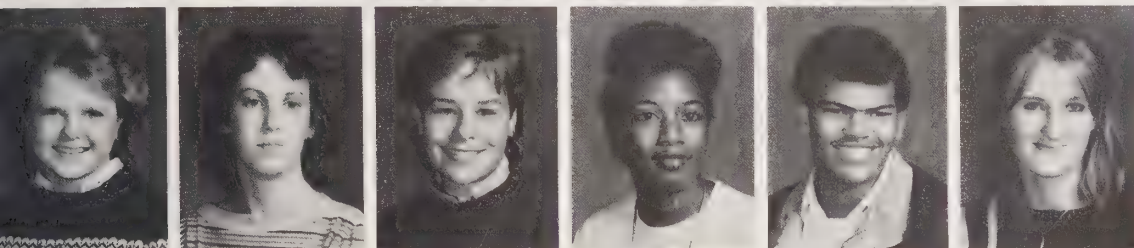

The seniors, haughty in their new status, made the new freshmen wonder about the coming year. Why did everyone yell "Good morning!" or cheer as Student Body President Scott Stokes welcomed everyone to the new year? What was it about Hendersonville High School which displayed that touch of class, that excellence? Maybe not by the end of the freshmen's first day of getting lost and taking the elevator to the fourth floor had they discovered the secret, but by the time we attacked Pisgah that Friday, the freshmen had guessed that maybe it was the family feeling of Hendersonville High that made the initiation bearable as part of the first day of school, and the "touch" evident.

Our Faculty is Excellent

The students of Hendersonville High School are all working toward the same goal, excellence. However, along this path many complications arise. But aid is given to students to help them overcome these complications by a group of people who have devoted their careers to setting the course for excellence. This group of people is our faculty.

Hendersonville High School should consider itself fortunate to have such a devoted and caring faculty. The realization should be made that faculties like ours are not prevalent within school systems today.

The teachers and administration began making preparations for the school year long before the first students began to arrive for the first day. These preparations included numerous things such as preparing lesson plans and conceiving new activities for the benefit of their students. During the first days of the school year, they donated their time to getting to know each of their students personally. In this early phase of the year, many students did not recognize the true personalities of their instructors. But, as time went on, the "real" teachers came out, and the students saw that there were people who truly did care.

Faculty members of each department met regularly together to plan the best route to take in teaching the students. Every day they strove to make Hendersonville High School a better place.

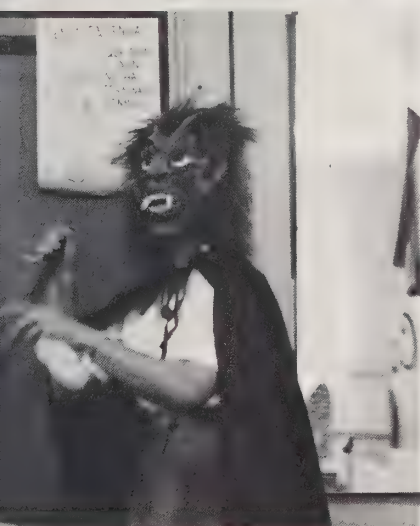

Besides teaching classes, many members of the faculty took on added responsibilities. Among these extra activities were the sponsoring of clubs and organizations and lending support to a variety of school functions by their attendance.

A tradition of excellence is synonymous with Hendersonville High School, and the faculty of the 1983-'84 school year is living up to that tradition.

Betsy Copolillo was named 1983-'84 Teacher of the Year for Hendersonville High School. This distinction is truly an honor. Mrs. Copolillo was awarded this honor by her peers, the faculty.

Among her qualifications are sixteen years of dedicated service, instructing subjects ranging from English to geometry. She is now the math department chairperson. She exemplifies the ideal characteristics of a teacher — organization, dedication, mastery of material (verbatim), and loyalty to her students. Despite her numerous responsibilities to her job and to her family, she is still willing to aid others in their striving for excellence.

The Student Council, sponsored by Mrs. Hannah Edwards and Mr. Rupert Otto, is the student organization which governs the school. Through the council, students may ask questions and voice their opinions about issues concerning the student body. The council is responsible for such activities as the magazine drive, soc-hops, assemblies, and Homecoming week. Other activities such as Spirit Week, the janitorial Christmas baskets, student elections, plot clean-ups and International Week are sponsored by the various Student Council committees and departments.

The Council consists of members-at-large, committee and department heads, and homeroom representatives who are responsible for taking notes during the meetings and reporting to their homerooms. Meetings are held every Tuesday morning before school.

The 1983 Marching Band had another excellent season. Their competition and half-time show consisted of the musical selections "Strike Up the Band," "Excerpt from 'The Symphonians,'" "If You Believe," "Shake, Rattle and Roll," horn call from "Siegfried's Rhine Journey," and "We're Off to See the Wizard/Somewhere Over the Rainbow." At the Enka Band Festival, held in September, the band received its 26th consecutive Superior rating. The majorettes received first place distinction at the contest. Under the direction of Mr. James M. Stokes, field conductor Jennifer Jarvis, and specialties director Mrs. Anne Stokes, the HHS marching band performed with class throughout the season.

An Award For Excellence

Chosen by audition tape, senior Scott Stokes was selected to participate in the McDonalds' All-American High School Band, which consists of only 104 students from the U. S. and its territories. Scott performed with the band in the Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade in New York and the Rose Bowl Parade in Pasadena, California.

The drama department and Thespians continued our standard of excellence throughout the year. In November two productions, "Who," directed by student teacher Miss Whitmire, and "Diamond Studs," were entered at the regional drama competition at UNCA. Both productions were well received, attaining both a set design and a directing award for "Who" and choreography, director, and ensemble acting awards for "Diamond Studs," and advanced to State Competition at UNCG. Kim Green and Brian Finney were chosen Best Actress and Actor, and Will Penny received an honorable mention. At State Competition nate and received the Best Director award. "Diamond Studs" received choreography and costuming awards. Brian Finney was selected Best Actor, and Laurie Jankowski received an honorable mention.

The drama department also performed for the school during Homecoming Week. The Thespians sponsored Arts Are Basic day with workshops and performances.

Under the direction of Mr. Tom Orr, Mrs. Eleanor Reim (and Miss Louise Whitmire, student teacher during the fall quarter), the Drama department and Thespians aimed for excellence and displayed their Bearcat "touch of class."

The Keywannettes is a service organization designed to promote the ideals of justice, patriotism, and useful citizenship. Through service to the community and the school, the Keywannettes continually display their standard of excellence. The Keywannettes held a fashion show to raise funds for the children's ward at Par-dee Hospital. They sponsored and assisted at the Red Cross Bloodmobile, where sixty pints of blood were donated. At the Rest Haven Rest Home, club members have "adopted a grandparent" and hold many public and individual activities for them. At Thanksgiving and Christmas the club prepared baskets for the needy through Western Carolina Community Action. During the school year Keywannettes sponsored Secretaries' Week, a Halloween Stew for the teachers, and a Soc-Hop. Twice monthly members attend the Kiwanis luncheon and once monthly attend a community church. Congratulations to the Keywannette sponsor, Mrs. Sharman Norman, and the club members for their many services to the community and school.

Sponsored by Mr. Phil Fellows, the Key Club of HHS strives to develop initiative and leadership and provides experiences in living and working together through service to the community and the school. Based on the principles of the Kiwanis Club, the Key Club is responsible for such activities as operating the concession stands at home athletic events, keeping score at J. V. football games, escorting Homecoming representatives, winterizing homes for the needy, and attending Kiwanis luncheons. The Key Club strives for excellence in its many services to the school and community.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

Kim Swindell prepares to tap new members for the Honor Society.

The Valentine Chapter of the National Honor Society is founded on the principles of service, character, leadership, and scholarship. The National Honor Society gives recognition to students who have achieved these qualities. Although the Honor Society is first an organization that honors the students, it does have a number of service projects such as tutoring and selling tickets for athletic events. The Honor Society also sponsors such activities as the aluminum can drive and a soc-hop to earn money for the Honor Society scholarship.

Honor Society members are required to have two work hours per month. Hours are earned through such activities as working gates and tutoring. Junior members serve as commencement marshals and plan the induction ceremony their senior year.

Sponsored by Mrs. Lynn Roberts and Mrs. Alice Lawson, the Honor Society strives for excellence through service to HHS.

Kathy Fredericks and Scott Shetterly prepare the latest issue of the Red and White.

The Red and White staff, under the guidance of Mrs. Beverly Russell and Editor Kathy Fredericks, publishes a monthly newspaper containing the latest information concerning sports, clubs, and the various activities of the student body. The Red and White is now produced by computer, making it much like a regular newspaper. Thanks to the graphics department and programmer Stuart Woods for an excellent publication.

FRENCH AND SPANISH CLUBS

The French Club consists of students presently enrolled in second, third, or fourth year French classes and students who have completed French II but are no longer enrolled in the French class. Sponsored by Mr. Dale Lappin, the French Club has participated in many activities throughout the year including movies, hikes, lectures and slide presentations, a Halloween crepe party, and Christmas caroling.

The Literary Club also meets monthly so that members may read aloud their original works for discussion. Thanks to the Literary Club for this truly "socko" publication.

Officers (L to R): Kathy Town, Vice-President; Laurie Correa, Secretary; Rusty Crafton, President.

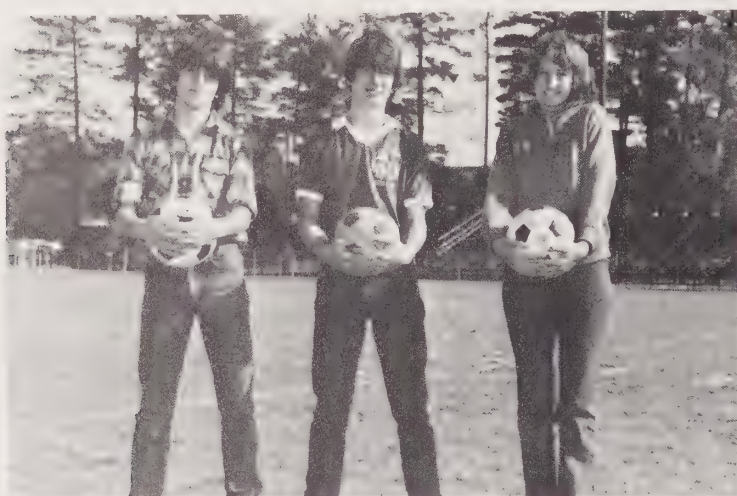

Gerry Diamond, Literary Club Treasurer, settles down for a creative moment.

SOCCER CLUB and FCA

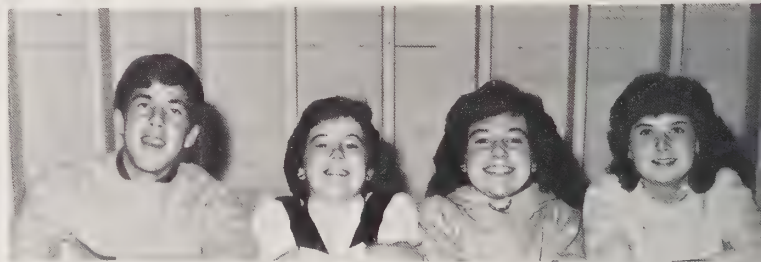

The Fellowship of Christian Athletes (FCA) is an organization designed to promote Christian fellowship through such activities as Bible studies before school, concerts, speakers, community church visits, and invocations before athletic events. The FCA sponsored a picnic at the beginning of the school year to allow students to get acquainted; it also held an ice-skating trip later in the year. The FCA is sponsored by Mr. Larry Nordlinger, Mr. Tom Murray, and Mr. David Pierce.

The Future Business Leaders of America (FBLA) is a new organization to HHS, formed under advisor Miss Mary Cunningham. The purpose of the club is to develop competent, aggressive leadership and create an interest and understanding of American business enterprise. The club, which consists of business students, competes at the district, state, and possibly national level in such categories as typing, accounting, and shorthand. Activities throughout the year include a formal candlelight installation ceremony, a leadership conference at Erwin High School, and co-sponsoring a spaghetti dinner with DECA. Welcome to HHS, FBLA.

VICA and DECA

The North Carolina Vocational Industries Clubs of America (VICA) is an organization designed for students enrolled in trade and industrial education courses. Under the direction of Mr. Harry Dotson, the club's members strive to develop qualities of self-confidence, leadership, and poise.

VICA members constructed and installed park benches throughout the campus. They also made Christmas ornaments for the faculty. In November, VICA members attended a District Leadership Conference at Mountain Heritage High School. Another leadership conference was attended in March. VICA members participated in many service activities throughout the school year.

The HHS Chapter of the Distributive Education Clubs of America (DECA), sponsored by Mr. Ted Brackett, consists of students enrolled in distributive education courses. The purpose of this organization is to promote appreciation for the private enterprise system and to develop the occupational skills necessary for careers in marketing and distribution.

At the beginning of the year, twenty-five DECA members attended the district leadership conference at UNCA. DECA co-sponsored a spaghetti dinner with FFA, and created DECA is a business for selling the products of the school.

DECA: Row 1 (L to R): E. Harvey, J. Biggerstaff, C. Reid, R. Brummett, J. McCauley, J. Snyder, R. Orr, K. Young, B. Owens, T. Weslake, J. Burrell, S. Smith. Row 2: J. Taylor, C. Smith, J. Staggs, C. David Baughman takes a break from computing to gaze at the camera.

President Stuart Woods is hard at work.

The purpose of the computer club is to give students with an interest in computing an opportunity to meet with others who share the same interests. The club members' dues are used for the maintenance of the computers and for the purchase of software. Members plan a major purchase of either a computer for the club members' own use or for a maintenance kit to repair the computers at the end of the school year. The Computer Club is sponsored by Mr. Baron Jackson.

LAUREATE

The LAUREATE Staff remained hard at work throughout the school year to publish the HHS yearbook, the LAUREATE. Much effort goes into finding a theme, choosing a cover, taking pictures, and developing ideas. During football season the staff sells victory ribbons to raise money and to support the football team. The annual Powderpuff football game and halftime activities are also sponsored by the LAUREATE.

The LAUREATE Staff works hard to meet its January deadline, putting the final touches on copy, pictures, and captions. Staff members devote much time and energy toward the publication of the LAUREATE. The staff would like to thank their sponsors, Miss Betty Williams and Mrs. Alice Lawson for their support.

Football is more than just a game. Sportsmanship is more than just shaking the other team's hands. And P. M. A. is more than just a cheer. Coach Brintnall and the other fine coaches bring a new dimension to this rough, tough, Thursday and Friday nights' sport, making it extremely exciting for the players and the fans. Sadly, the squad is going to lose ten fine players. All of the seniors who played this year proudly exemplified the true meaning of Bearcats. Hats off to them all.

WHO'S WHO

Those seniors who have proved themselves outstanding throughout their high school years are selected for WHO'S WHO IN AMERICAN HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS, a very distinguished honor. They are selected on the basis of service to the school, whether through academics, arts, sports, or leadership. A committee of faculty members nominates note worthy seniors, takes the list of nominees to a full faculty meeting, and holds a discussion. The faculty then votes for a small group of seniors to receive this honor.

Bill McKibbin, Jennifer Jarvis, Scott Stokes, Lee Veazey, Brian Finney, Jean-Marie Prim.

Traci Overgaard, Bill McCarthy, Nancy Linder.

Chris Cosgrove, Kathy Fredericks, Kevin Staggs.

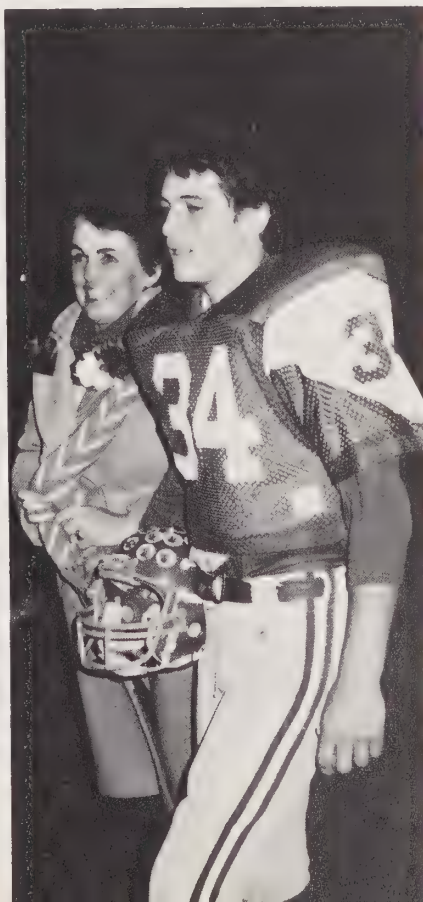

EXCELLENCE CONTINUES . . .

Chris Stepp yells at the Senior-Sophomore powderpuff team to hustle up.

Brad Redden says that it's "OK" to take the picture now.

John Cleary and his mother are introduced on Homecoming night.

High School Years

I can't believe I made it.

I'm finally in high school.

I guess I'll have to study hard
To learn that "Golden Rule."

Football games and Pizza Hut,
All will be in fun.

But I wonder what I'll do,
When my high school years are done?
If I plan to go to college,
Which one will it be?

There are so many to choose from;
I wonder what's best for me?

But I'm only a freshman,
On the bottom of them all.

And when I get through high school,
I never plan to fall.

I'll keep my head up high,
A step above the rest.

I know I have the pride
To do my very best.

TAO

Mr. Orr,
 It has been an uplifting experience working with you this past year. Please try to overlook any grammatical errors that I may have made.
 You are one my most favorite teachers. You have made this year worthwhile for. Although you've had your share of difficulties you have never lost your professional luster.
 Keep up the good work Grandpa Tom.
 God Bless,
 James
 Mamm

MR. Orr.
 Thanks for opening
 my eyes to a wonderful world of English. Thanks.
 Ben Becker

Mr. Orr
 From the first moment
 on I've enjoyed your English class and I never thought it could be so much fun. This year has been an unforget-
 Thank you for all your help.

Saskia
 (The Netherlands)

Mr. Orr,
 I thank you for the wonderful year I have learned so much - now
 I know what an adverse modifies. I have enjoyed this year tremendously.
 You're the best teacher I've ever had! Thanks for your time and
 thanks for teaching
 me something....
 Finally!
 James

 (3-syllables) Woodman

Mr. Orr,
 Thanks for being
 such a great teacher!
 I can honestly say you are the best I've had. I am grateful for all your help in Drama and English. Thank you for giving me a chance - Thanks again!

Mr. Dr,

I have truly enjoyed the last few years and all the times we've worked together.
I have grown to respect you both as a teacher and as a friend. Your class was very tough, but I feel I'm prepared for college
now. Thanks for everything - and keep up the good work. I'll think of you often and I'll miss you more than you'd ever know!

Love,

Stan Marie Kim
